Who submits report

Resolutions

The responsibility for reporting on resolutions lies with each Conference member.

Pledges

The responsibility for reporting on pledges depends on the type of pledge:

- Individual specific pledges are reported upon by the sole pledging party, as they describe a specific commitment with an individual plan of action.
- Joint specific pledges require a joint report by all the pledging parties on their common efforts, as they describe a collaboration on a specific topic.
- Open pledges, which are similar to petitions, can be reported on by each pledging party individually as regards their respective implementation progress or jointly with several pledging parties

Is it possible to submit a joint pledge report?

Yes, Conference members and observers can submit a joint report on jointly submitted specific pledges and open pledges. Please assign a Conference member or observer to complete the online pledge report form and do not forget to fill in the names of the other Conference members/observers who jointly report on the pledge.

When to report on resolutions and pledges from the 33rd International Conference

To enable dynamic reporting, the system will be open from July 2021 to 30 June 2024. Conference members can provide their implementation update anytime at their own For this long period, Conference members can submit more than one report on the same resolution/pledge to demonstrate the advancement of their commitments. The reports will be differentiated by date. For example, Conference members can submit an update in 2022/2023 to show progress on implementation and then submit a final report on the final accomplishments in 2024.

The information received will be compiled and posted on the website to show the progress made and, most importantly, the impact of the Conference outcomes on our daily humanitarian work. In addition, based on this information, a final consolidated report on the outcomes of the 33rd International Conference will be prepared for the 34th International Conference in 2024.
