PLENARY:

7. Navigate uncertainty, strengthen humanity

Introduces the International Conference and sets the scene for three days of exploring, learning about and deciding on humanitarian action in light of current and future challenges.

COMMISSION I: Building a Global Culture of Respect for International Humanitarian Law (IHL)

The 34th International Conference is being held at a critical time when the unacceptable cost of armed conflict demands a renewed commitment to our common humanity. It also marks the 75th anniversary of the Geneva Conventions of 1949. Currently, there are over 100 ongoing armed conflicts, many of which are neglected by the international community and the media, and many of which are protracted, with consequences that last for generations. When IHL is respected and its humanitarian spirit upheld, lives are saved, and a level of dignity is preserved. Yet, respect for IHL remains insufficient in many armed conflicts, causing devastating suffering. More must be done to improve implementation and compliance with IHL.

Commission I aims to mobilize States, working with National Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies (National Societies), to redouble their efforts to implement IHL obligations in good faith.

The opening plenary of the commission will focus on prevention work and set the stage for thematic discussions that will take place throughout the day. With its focus on prevention work, Commission I underpins the IHL resolution being tabled at the conference.

Four spotlight sessions are planned, two in the morning and two in the afternoon, running in parallel. They will be a platform for smaller, interactive group debates on key thematic topics in contemporary armed conflicts. Each spotlight session aims to raise awareness, provide space for discussion and debate, and encourage members of the conference to adopt pledges for concrete and meaningful action to improve respect for IHL. The sessions concern:

- War in cities
- Promoting disability-inclusive interpretations and implementation of IHL in complementarity with the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities
- Protection of the natural environment in armed conflicts
- Autonomous weapon systems.

A reconvening plenary session will connect the debates that took place during the spotlight sessions.

NETWORKING, HUMANITARIAN VILLAGE AND SIDE EVENTS

Participants will have the opportunity to connect with one another, visit the Humanitarian Village and attend side events¹ that will take place during lunchtime and in the evening, outside of the formal agenda.

¹ Side events are organized at the initiative of conference participants and are not part of the formal conference agenda. Their schedule will be published with the mailing of the official working documents of the conference.

FOR THE RECORD: VOICES FROM THE CONFERENCE

Members and observers will be able to share formal statements on the conference's themes for the official record. They will need to register in advance to do so. This segment will run continuously, in parallel to other sessions, from the morning of Tuesday 29 October to the end of the day on Wednesday 30 October.

DRAFTING COMMITTEE

The Drafting Committee will work in parallel to the other sessions of the conference on the morning of 29 October and conclude their work by lunchtime on 31 October.

Five resolutions are proposed for adoption.

Wednesday 30 October

COMMISSION II: Standing by our Fundamental Principles in responding to humanitarian needs and risks

In the current context of global crises and the various threats to principled humanitarian action, it is prudent and timely to focus on the continued importance of the Fundamental Principles to the humanitarian activities of the International Red Cross and Red Crescent Movement (Movement). This commission will allow participants to explore the practical implications and risks of non-compliance with the Fundamental Principles in different humanitarian contexts. It will reinforce the importance of States working with Movement components to ensure respect for the Fundamental Principles and of taking action to curtail activities that are contrary to the Fundamental Principles, which can put humanitarian workers and volunteers, and the communities they serve, at risk.

This commission aims to expand upon and bring to life the theme of respect for principled humanitarian action, which is the subject of a Council of Delegates resolution. It will consider humanitarian needs, action and current and emerging risks through the lens of principled humanitarian action and the Fundamental Principles, and will call on States, during the commission's opening plenary session, to show respect for such action.

The following spotlight sessions will be a platform for smaller, interactive group debates. Two will run concurrently in the morning and the other two concurrently in the afternoon:

- Respect for neutral, impartial and independent humanitarian action
- Working together to reduce the impacts of climate change on communities
- Navigating pressing challenges in the context of migration: The importance of a principled humanitarian approach
- Raising awareness about emerging challenges: Humanitarian protection risks in an increasingly digitalized world.

A reconvening plenary session will connect the debates that took place during the spotlight sessions.

NETWORKING, HUMANITARIAN VILLAGE AND SIDE EVENTS

The participants will have opportunities to connect with one another, visit the Humanitarian Village and attend side events that will take place during lunchtime and in the evening, outside of the formal agenda.

FOR THE RECORD: VOICES FROM THE CONFERENCE

COMMISSION III: Enabling sustainable, locally-led action

Commission III will bring together Movement components, States and conference observers to work together on how to enhance locally led action and local leadership to meet the humanitarian and development needs of communities. It will examine ways to strengthen and increase investment in the capacities and sustainability of local actors including, but not limited to, National Societies, and highlight the impact of their work at the community level. It will explore different aspects of locally led action – the auxiliary role of National Societies, the role of volunteers, the diversity of local actors, and how partnerships, financing, risk sharing and coordination can enhance their role.

The commission will explore ways in which States and other international actors can invest in local and national capacities and reinforce the auxiliary role of National Societies in the humanitarian field in complementarity with each other. The commission will identify remaining key barriers to enabling sustainable locally led action and propose solutions and actions for the future, so as to shift to a new paradigm that places local action at the centre of humanitarian and development action.

A plenary session will set the scene for the subsequent four spotlight sessions.

The following spotlight sessions will be a platform for smaller, interactive group debates and will run concurrently:

- The vital role of volunteers and community-based actors in social safety nets for community resilience
- Working together with States and local authorities in managing and strengthening the auxiliary role across all levels
- Community health action and front-line preparedness: Learning from the past to shape the future
- Overcoming barriers on financing and risk sharing to foster locally-led action.

A reconvening plenary session will connect the debates that took place during the spotlight sessions and preview the next day.

NETWORKING, HUMANITARIAN VILLAGE AND SIDE EVENTS

The participants will have opportunities to connect with one another, visit the Humanitarian Village and attend side events that will take place in the morning and during lunchtime, outside of the formal agenda.
